Manager Robinson sent his star pitcher, Pfeffer, to the mound to check the Philadelphias' advance, but he was hammered hard and consistently, and his service failed to baffle the bats of the visitors. Luderus helped himself to two two-bag-

Yankees today, though it is no cinch that the Griffmen will be able to win two from the Mackmen, for Mack will have two of his best/pitchers on the mound. Seibold and Johnson both have pitched good ball, the former having held St. Louis to three hits, when he shut them out last Sunday, while the latter always is a dangerous opponent.
Detroit beat St. Louis yesterday, and the Tigers are likely to make a clean sweep of that series. In this case, if the Griffmen clean up with the Mackmen and take two of the three games from the Yankees when they play there Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, they should finish in the first division.

The Nationals will play an exhibition game at Jersey City tomorrow. The game has been well advertised, and a big crowd is expected.

Playing in a cold, driving wind and rainstorm, sixty-four golfers of the New York district battled their way over the Inwood Country Club course yesterday in the qualifying round of the metropolitan section of the Professional Golfers' Association. William McFarlane of the Hudson River Country Club had the honor of tying with James West of Rockaway to lead the field at 153. Strange to say, plodding and forcing their way through the inclement weather, both men had the same scores morning and afternoon, 78 and 76. After the leaders came a trio of homebreds, Tom Kerrigan of Siwanoy, Tom McNamara and Joe Mitchell, with 155, 156 and 157, respectively. The surprise of the day's play was the failure of two of the pronounced favorites to qualify, Gil Nichols of Great Neck and McDonald Smith of Greenwich. Walter Hagen of Rochester, metropolitan and western open champlon, barely nosed his way into the select circle, finishing in the twelfth position with 161. The scores:

Many big foot ball teams today get in action for their first actual tests in 1916. While there are to be few contests in which both teams are of nearly even strength, quite a little interest centers around several of the games. Also there are two or three combats listed which are likely to develop into hard struggles.

The University of Pennsylvania may find a real opponent in West Virginia University. The Quakers are entering their first real game of the year, under Folwell's tuition, with a somewhat crippled team, and with an opponent which last season was beaten by only one touchdown. West Virginia, too, has had its squad in training since August, in order to get in good condition for the opening battle with Pennsylvania.

Two other games in which the fur is apt to fly are those between Rutgers and Vilsanova and between Lafayette and Fordham. Anybody who knows the character of these teams will understand that neither is likely to be defeated easily.

Much interest will center in the game Yale is to play with Carnegie Tech, as the Dark Blue has a team which will do its utmost to retrieve the setbacks of the last few years. The Carnegie eleven has been coming fast in the last few seasons, and there is no doubt that it will work hard to make a good showing against the New Haven eleven. Yale probably is further advanced in its general development than it was this time a year ago. Yale alumni and undergraduates will watch with anxious eyes the performance of their team, hoping that something will be shown which will give hope for a probable victory over Harvard. Virginia and the North Carolina A and M. are to play games in the south Atlantic section. The former is to meet Davidson and the latter Roanoke. Virginia and A. and M. should win without a lot of truble.
